NEW SNAP-ON COVER MAKES HI-PERF RIDGE VENT INSTALLATION A SNAP

Waukesha, WI—Metal-Era, Inc., the national leader in commercial roof edge and roof ventilation solutions, announces that its popular Hi-Perf Ridge Vent now features a snap-on cover.

The Hi-Perf Ridge Vent provides for proper venting at the ridge, which is critical for any roof design utilizing ventilation. The new snap-on cover adds to the overall efficient design qualities of the Hi-Perf Ridge Vent. Its slotted fastening holes provide for proper thermal movement and correct fastener placement and spacing. The Hi-Perf Ridge Vent is manufactured in 12' lengths for quicker installation.

“The new snap-on cover is a great new feature for our customers,” says Tony Mallinger, Chief Operating Officer. “The Hi-Perf Ridge Vent has become quite popular because it accommodates the unique needs of commercial ventilation and has an extremely efficient design. Now with the snap-on cover installations will be even faster.”

Unlike other ridge vents, Hi-Perf is designed to accommodate individual venting requirements. Therefore, regardless of the amount of airspace underneath the roof covering, Hi-Perf is manufactured proportionately to provide the correct amount of net free vent air.

Hi-Perf's unique, all metal construction withstands heavy snow loads and will not compress under stress. The ridge vent is both weather and bug proof. Hi-Perf Ridge Vent has excellent water resistance properties and has passed water infiltration test TAS 100(A) and Miami-Dade approval is currently in progress.

The Hi-Perf Ridge Vent accommodates both standing seam and shingled roofs and the low profile cover is available in .040", .050" and .063" aluminum and 24 gauge steel. It is engineered to allow for maximum design flexibility with no exposed fasteners and also allows for shingle attachment directly onto the ridge vent.

Hi-Perf is the perfect accompaniment to Metal-Era's Hi-Perf Fascia line which provides intake venting at the eave. The snap-on cover is available immediately on all Hi-Perf Ridge Vents.
